During the year, both short and long hair were prevalent as shown here by K. Randolph and D. Gallion.

School Attire Center of Controversy

With the beginning of a new decade, the students at White River got into the groove by petitioning the school board for a liberalization of the present dress code. As it turned out, the code was left unchanged, but pants or trousers were said to be in good taste for girls and now could be worn during school. To illustrate the proper school attire, the Girls' Club held a style show in January where many different fashions were seen.

In the male area, jeans remained the vogue, but in a much looser style. On the other hand, or leg, dressier pants were also seen on some of the more fashion-conscious boys.

The year, as a whole, showed changes in various areas but especially in that of dress.

During the style show, E. Mathern models a super micro-mini while L. Smith and S. Grab contrast jeans to pants of G. Imhof and W. McCauley.

Junior boys seem to be of one mind when it comes to clothes.

The new hair scarves appeal to Trudy Ireland and Gloria Imhof.

The courtyard is an area mirroring student life. During lunch and between classes the vast difference in school attire is noticeable.

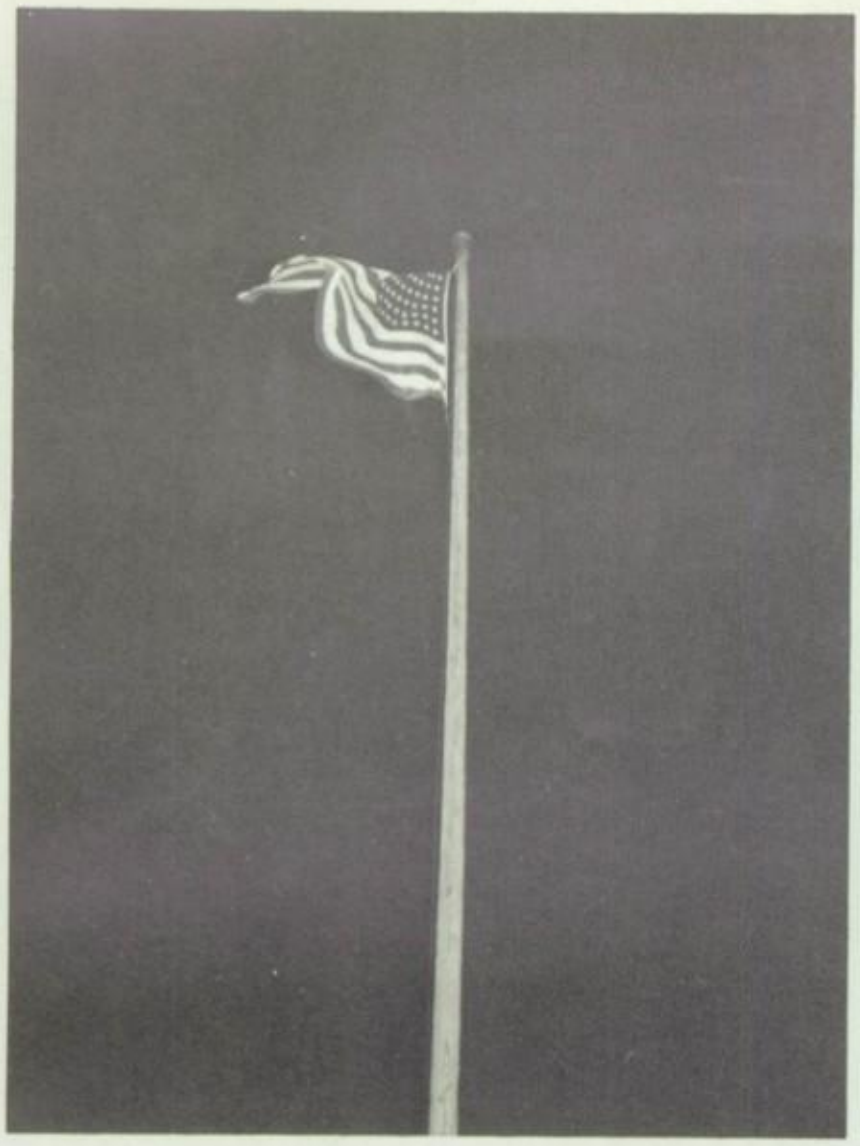
July 20, 1969



Back on Earth . . .

Parades for peace and patriotism began in October with a series of moratoriums, but whether one is a dove or a hawk about Viet Nam, the American flag is still a symbol of national loyalty. On Veteran's Day White River students honored veterans and dramatized the tragedy of war.

Pollution and Population were of major concern to the nation. The three rows of cars in the school parking lot contributed their share of exhaust fumes to foul the air, as did the diesel buses. The garbage truck hauled its load to the city dump for burning.

If the world population doubles in thirty years, ecologists express concern with our survival. With air and water becoming polluted, with green grass and trees giving way to concrete and asphalt, will our environment continue to sustain life?

On a clear day in Buckley one can see forever... but how long will it last?

"Somewhere My Love" for Homecoming

Homecoming activities for the year 1969-70 began on November 7th with a luncheon for the Royalty and the judges. At the afternoon assembly for students and alumni, members of the Royal Court were introduced by mistress of ceremonies Elaine Mathern.

One by one, Wendi Brown, Barbara Mellish, Wendy McCauley, Sue Twardoski, Dean Kaelin, John Kaelin, Kip Smith, and Dave Martin walked down the aisles of the auditorium to be spotlighted on stage.

While Mr. Al Holyan, mayor of Enumclaw and a Buckley alumnus of the class of '45, talked about the "old days", the judges made their final choice.

Principal R. W. Mellish, with his usual delaying tactics, finally announced the judges decision - Sue Twardoski was named Queen and Kip Smith, King. Gloria Hanson and Tim Hurley sang "Somewhere My Love" as a tribute to the King and Queen.

After the pep assembly alumni were invited to a tea in the high school library, sponsored by the Honor Society.

The Hornets met the League-leading Sumner Spartans that night and fell to defeat. A spectacular half-time show was put on by the Band and Drill Team, with commentary supplied by Mr. Cleasby and Mr. McGuinness. Patsy Anderson and Connie Nearhood twirled batons and performed majorette duties.

Homecoming activities came to an end with the dance Saturday night. The dance was sponsored by Student Council and chairmanned by V.P. Joe Twardoski. The theme "Somewhere My Love" was carried out with decorations that set a romantic mood.

Student Council Becomes Involved

This year the Student Council, led by President Kip Smith, worked mainly in promoting school spirit and student participation in school activities.

One of its accomplishments was a revision of the dress code. After consulting with the School Board, the council decided that girls could wear pants outfits to school on a trial basis. The Girls' Club had an assembly to demonstrate what was in good taste both in pants suits and mini skirts.

To have a more effective council, members were urged to attend school Board meetings and report back on school policy and become involved in its formation. Executive meetings were held on major topics and points of discussion so that regular meetings could proceed in a smooth and orderly manner.

Honor Society Revises Constitution

Becoming a chapter of the National Honor Society was the highlight of the Club's activities this year. The constitution was revised to meet national standards.

Members visited several colleges to become familiar with programs offered. They also raised money for a scholarship for a student selected by ballot at the annual picnic in the spring.

Initiation of new members inspired heated arguments, with one side for fun and games and the other for more dignity, claiming that tricks were childish. The fun side won, and the initiation was held at Steve Newton's house, followed by a serpentine down Main Street.

Girls' Club Most Active Group

The Girls' Club started the year with a new adviser, Mrs. Alice Coate, and President Susie Grab. Senior girls started out with the Big and Little Sister party to welcome freshman girls.

As a change from Almond Roca, members sold Heath Miniatures and Mint Truffles. Paula Carnahan, a freshman, sold the most candy, and besides earning points, won a free box of candy.

Christmas Week was made more festive when the girls featured activities to get students into the proper mood. They also held a fashion show to demonstrate what was appropriate school attire in line with the school's new dress code which allowed pants outfits for girls.

Winter brought the traditional Tolo dance while spring functions included the Mother-Daughter and Father-Daughter Banquets. The year was capped by the Mother-Daughter Tea and Installation held in the evening.

One of the projects of the Club was to remodel the Reader Board and purchase easily installed plastic letters.

Hot dogs sold like hot dogs at the Girls' Club concession booth at football games. These efficient girls have an assembly line going to get their product to market.

Service Is

In addition to their academic lead, many students served the community and school. With the installation of the new switchboard at the administration office, girls assisted in its operation, channeling calls to their proper extension.

Other students worked as office girls at both the junior and senior high schools and received valuable work experience in office procedure. They took attendance, answered the phone, delivered messages, typed, and performed various tasks essential to running an office.

Library assistants also served both schools. In addition to helping keep the library in efficient running order and aiding students with research, they demonstrated the new copy machine. The copier received much use for reference work and locker pictures.

For the first time Red Cross included boys in its membership. Members did volunteer work at Rainier School and Madigan hospital and were in charge of the March of Dimes campaign. Several attended the home nursing course.

T'Kopechuck Staff Uses Original Effects

The T'Kopechuck staff had the responsibility of compiling a record of the year's activities and memories. Each year the staff tries to make its yearbook different from the year before.

For the first time they designed their own cover, using photography with silk screen effect. Also new was the use of tinted, textured paper for the senior section. Both original ideas took courage because the final result was not a sure thing.

The main theme of the annual was the broadening of students' lives through every-day experiences. Special pages were devoted to the new English system, world events, fashions, and candid shots around school.

With the increased enrollment in the school making a total of 450 students, four extra pages had to be added. A record number of 430 annuals also had to be ordered. That figure included complimentary copies to business and professional people who helped sponsor the annual.

Hornet Staff Meets Responsibilities

This year's Hornet reflected the changing attitudes and extended knowledge of its staff, as well as youth in general. Students working on the paper discovered the pleasure of writing stories to inform or entertain, and gained valuable experience in meeting responsibilities.

A variety of news, features, and editorial comment kept Hornet readers informed, thinking, and aware. A new feature, "The Hornet Opinion Poll" was added this year. Through it individuals and classes often learned interesting facts about others as well as about themselves.

Band Shows Spirit

With a 25% increase in band membership Director Gary Cleasby brought forth a new exciting sound from enthusiastic musicians.

During the football season the band combined with the Drill Team to put on two half-time shows. At the Fall Concert they became thespians while performing "Lawrence Milk Plays Guy Lumbago."

The band had a full schedule of concerts in winter and spring, as well as performances at pep assemblies, exchange concerts, and graduation.

Individual honors went to Bill Sahm, who qualified for All-State Band, and a record nine participants in the Seamount League Honor Band-Cheryl Lingo, Diana Russell, Barbara Mellish, Dave Martin, Ron Hubert, Stan Holman, Kerry Oliphant, Gary Bauman, Dick Box.

Recognition was also given to Dick Box for arranging a concert piece and to Dave Martin, who served as student director.

The group got into full swing with a newly organized stage Band which met three times a week before school. They played at various community functions and festivals.

A woodwind quintet and a horn quartet also performed at functions.

Lighter moments included running around the track to warm up, a swimming party and chili feed, and a party at Fairfax.

At the Band Banquet in the Spring, which parents also attended, awards were presented to those members who earned them.

White River Hosts Seamount

Under Director Ken Sammons, Chorus became large enough this year to form two groups. A cadet choir met first period while the performing group met second.

The cadet choir continued to wear the traditional maroon robes, but the A capella choir chose new outfits. The girls made maroon dresses with white collars, and the boys wore maroon blazers with grey slacks.

The choir performed at four seasonal concerts, and during the Christmas season sang at Fort Lewis and Madigan Hospital.

Highlight of the year was the Seamount League Chorus Festival in February when White River served as host school. This took a great deal of planning and hard work by everyone. A choral contest held in Bremerton in April climaxed the year's activities.

League Chorus Festival

Although choral singing is a group effort, the choir had its outstanding individuals. Chosen for All-State Chorus were Barbara Mellish, Gloria Hanson, Dave Martin, Stan Holman, and Tim Hurley. Selection was made from auditions made on tapes.

All-State Band and Chorus met in Yakima March 19 through 21 and was climaxed by a mass performance the last evening.

An ensemble was formed as a class this year and met before school during the week. The ensemble proved to be a lighter side of choir with the group singing such selections as "Downtown" and "The Twelve Days after Christmas."

A Girls' Ensemble, composed of 8th and 9th graders, met twice a week after school, and performed with the concert choir.

Drill Team Performs At Homecoming

Under the supervision of Adviser Miss Shirley Fuller, the Hornet Drill Team had an eventful year. With the responsibility of entertaining at half-time during home games, the eighteen members found it necessary to change image by making new uniforms.

For the first home game the Drill Team and Band combined to put on a spectacular half-time show. With the field lights out, and to the theme music from 2001: A Space Odyssey, the Drill Team performed intricate movements with tiny flashlights.

The two groups combined their talents again for the Homecoming half-time performance. While the Band played selections from the Roaring Twenties to the present, the Drill Team performed their maneuvers.

Pep Club Supports Team

The goal of President Sharleen Webster and Adviser Mrs. Sharon Hare was to guide the Pep Club in promoting spirit and enthusiasm in the school. This was the second year that the Pep Club was active, and first on the agenda was new uniforms for the girls.

During the football and basketball seasons, the girls made advertising signs and sat as a group at all home games. They also lined up with the Drill Team to usher in players after half-time, and served as ushers at basketball games.

It was the responsibility of the group to learn all the school yells so that they could contribute to the spirit of their classmates at pep assemblies.

To raise funds for next year, the club held a bake sale.

FFA Brings Home Awards

The Buckley F.F.A. worked through the summer to put up 200 tons of hay, with time out in June for six of the top points-winners, who enjoyed a 5-day fishing trip to Canada with Adviser Mr. Kirk.

The Dairy Judging team picked up five banners, while the Beef team won two. Fifteen boys attended five fairs. At the King County Fair the Chapter put on a Chicken Bar-B-Q.

Individual honors went to Rick Mounts, who finished 9th in the State in Livestock judging, and Lorne Soler, who came in third in the District in dairy judging.

Fund raising activities during the year consisted of the cider sales in October, and the turkey donation in December. A special Christmas basket was prepared and given to a needy family in this area.

G.A.A. Gets Into Shape

Under the advisorship of Miss Mary Haavisto and the leadership of President Cindy Bradley, the purpose of the Girls' Athletic Association was to promote physical fitness, sportsmanship, friendship, and just plain fun.

Throughout the year a good competitive spirit was shown in basketball, ping pong, bowling, baseball, volleyball, and for the first time, swimming.

White River hosted the Seamount League Volleyball playday in October. The theme of "No Matter What Shape" was carried out in name tags designed to represent various sports equipment. Trophies went to the one girl from each school who was on the winning team.

Girls who earned enough points received awards at the Girls' Club Mother-Daughter Tea and Installation.

Ski Club Looks Ahead

Members of the White River Ski Club took advantage of their proximity to the powdery slopes of Crystal Mountain. Many students participated in the Ski School, but one did not have to take lessons to join the club or ride the school district bus.

Early in the year the club sponsored activities to boost the treasury in the hope of an overnight trip to a different ski resort.

A ski swap in the multi-purpose room gave students a chance to buy or sell used equipment.

Injuries and minor casualties occurred, but under the guidance of Adviser Mr. Kirk, members chose their equipment carefully to avoid any major accidents.

The enthusiasm of the number of skiers who partcipated in the winter sport encourage others to join the club.

Acting Is Their Line

The first production of the Acting class was the dramatization of Davenport's poem "My Country" for Veteran's Day. With the auditorium darkened and the spotlight on Richard Ray posed by his buddy's grave, the audience was hushed as they listened to eerie pre-recorded narration.

The Class put on three one-act plays at both matinee and evening performances. A three-act play was scheduled for late spring.

In adition to acting, the class studied staging, make-up and directing.

Debate Speaks Out

Not since 1965 has White River participated in Debate, but with Mr. Burton to act as adviser, the activity was revived. The group did not debate officially, but did attend Invitational Tournaments at Pacific Lutheran University and Clark College.

Students concentrated on oratory, interpretive reading and impromptu. They also held practice Lincoln-Douglas debates with Sumner and Enumclaw.

With experience gained this year, White River will participated in League debate next year.

Staff Boosts Pep

To get ready for the sports season the Yell Staff attended the annual 5-day Cheerleading Conference at Central Washington State College in July. Out of 300 girls, Gail Emry, Judy Blanusa, and Phyllis Straley captured ribbons in the yell division.

The group also attended an afternoon session for Seamount League cheerleaders in the Fall, where they discussed common problems and sought solutions.

With Mrs. Merifield as adviser the Yell Staff promoted spirit by constructing huge signs and leading new yells. Long hours of practice were rewarded by the spirit shown at the pep assemblies and games. The pep jug created friendly competition among the classes and ambitious signs were featured at the assemblies.

Queen Gail Emry shows the pep jug to Linda Albert, a new member of Yell Staff.

Hornets Place Third

The 14-6 win over the Enumclaw Hornets was the highlight of the 1969 football season. The White River Hornets finished third with Enumclaw and Sumner tying for first position and Bethel placing second. In League standing they finished with a 6-win, 3-loss, 1-tie record.

High scorers for the season were Pat Roney with 49 points and Dean Kaelin with 46.

Basketball Team Battles State Competition

This year the Hornets proved themselves to be one of the top "A" basketball teams in the state by winning a berth in the state tournament. After a 4-won 7-lost record in the Seamount League composed of AA schools, the team battled their way into the Class A tournament by defeating St. Edwards and Port Townsend in West Central play-off games.

Coach Allen said that "their outstanding attitude and effort carried them much farther than anyone expected." High point man was Jim Best, center, who garnered 369 points for the whole season.

Baseball Team Develops New Talent

With a new baseball coach, Mr. Burton, the team hopes to win its share of games. Because of the number of inexperienced players Coach Burton feels that the team will be in better condition to be strong contenders next year. A ninth grade team coached by Mr. Wytko and Mr. Rudolph will provide new material.

A strong infield includes Bruce Beatty at first base, Bryan King at second, Mark Robbins at 3rd, and Art McGehee at shortstop. Catching is strong with ballplayers Bob Mihelitch and Dave Kirk. Inexperince shows up in the outfield and pitching positions, but practice should develop a stronger show.

Trackmen Enthusiastic

With a new track and running surface, and this year's enthusiasm, Coach Gary Sambila expects a good season. The team of about twenty-four members has little depth, but has two or three good sprinters and should also do well in the weight events with letterman Warren Edwards. Several team members will probably go to State, particularly Ed Wytko in the javelin. Ed competed in the state tourney last year.

Tennis Team Has Large Turnout

Last year White River, with a 7-3 record, finished second in our division behind Enumclaw. Although the team lost many of its starters, returning lettermen Dean Kaelin, Kip Smith and Barbara Anderson form the nucleus for this year. Returning letterman Pat Roney may compete after a knee injury heals.

According to Coach Smetheram promising players are Joe Twardoski, Lynda Smith, Teresa Kneeland, Arlynn Twardoski, Cary Lindsay, and Phyllis Straley. The Coach predicts the team should place at least in the top three of our division.

Future tennis prospects practice against the wall.

Jr. High Cheerleaders: K. Kaelin, L. Arsanto, S. Kaelin, R. Chandler, J. Blanusa.

Junior High Sports

Even with fifteen returning lettermen the Hornet Babes found it tough going. Although they suffered a miserable loss to champion Enumclaw, they almost pulled out a tie with second-placer Fife, only to lose in the last 45 seconds.

Another highlight was holding Foster to minus yardage and blocking two punts for touchdowns.

Winning the football Inspiration award was Kevin Wilson, and the Scholastic Award, Randy Jacobs.

Have Successful Year

The White River Hornet Babe basketball team had a successful season. A couple of points here and there could have made them a championship team.

They lost a heartbreaker to Sumner by one point in a double overtime game, and another game to Sumner in another overtime game.

The team gave 100% almost all of the time. Mark Baydek was the high scorer, with Dale Hiam getting the most rebounds.

Coach Lloyd Blanusa was confident that many team members will be able to step up into junior varsity positions next year.

Memories There Will Be

1957 to 1970-Thirteen years that most of us spent at White River Schools.

in 1957 we began our adventure in kindergarten with Miss Houston in the Presbyterian Church. Graduation from high school seemed to be a far-off never-never land.

Then came grade school at Wickersham and an exciting transfer to Wilkeson for the fifth grade and a little world all our own. It was the first time some of us rode a bus.

Sixth grade brought us back to Buckley at the Junior High School where we spent the next three years. As freshmen we transferrnd to high school and began a new set of memories and experiences.

Looking back, those thirteen years went quickly. We realize that they were only a star-the basis for the rest of our education. After graduation, whether we go on to school, get a job, or join the service, our learning will continue.

The Junior Class, with two years of experience, had quite a successful year. The Prelimary Scholastic Aptitude Test, the National Merit Qualifying Test, and vocational tests kept juniors busy along with their usual class load.

Along with school studies and the worries of tests, the juniors were active in sports and clubs, helping to organize the new French Club and Key Club. In the spring the class sponsored the Junior-Senior Ball which was partially financed by the Senior Class.

Juniors began to think seriously of the future as they looked at college and technical school catalogs, and investigated branches of the service. Many juniors attended the College Conference held annually at one of the area colleges.

Sophomores Step Upward

With renewed confidence and a year's experience behind them, the sophomore class again entered high school life. Competing for the pep jug and sponsoring the Sophomore Hop of December 5th, were just two of the many activities in which they took part. Not content to be followers, sophomores were also involved in school and club leadership.

However, more serious thoughts occupied their minds, too. The Differential Aptitude test was taken in the spring and throughout the school year sophomores participated in the new English system.

The class of '72 with its great spirit and energy moved closer to its goals in 1970.

Freshmen Enjoy First Year

One hundred forty freshmen started their high school years as the largest class in school. They soon proved to upperclassmen that they were not just "crowding the halls," as they joined clubs and participated in athletics.

As a test of their stamina, as well as scholarship, they took the three-day Iowa Test of Educational Development. For the first time this year freshman schedules eliminated a study hall period. Students did their assignments in class under teacher supervision, and visited the library during their English periods or whenever the need arose.

The Class of '73 made their contribution to school spirit and showed promise of even greater enthusiam next year.

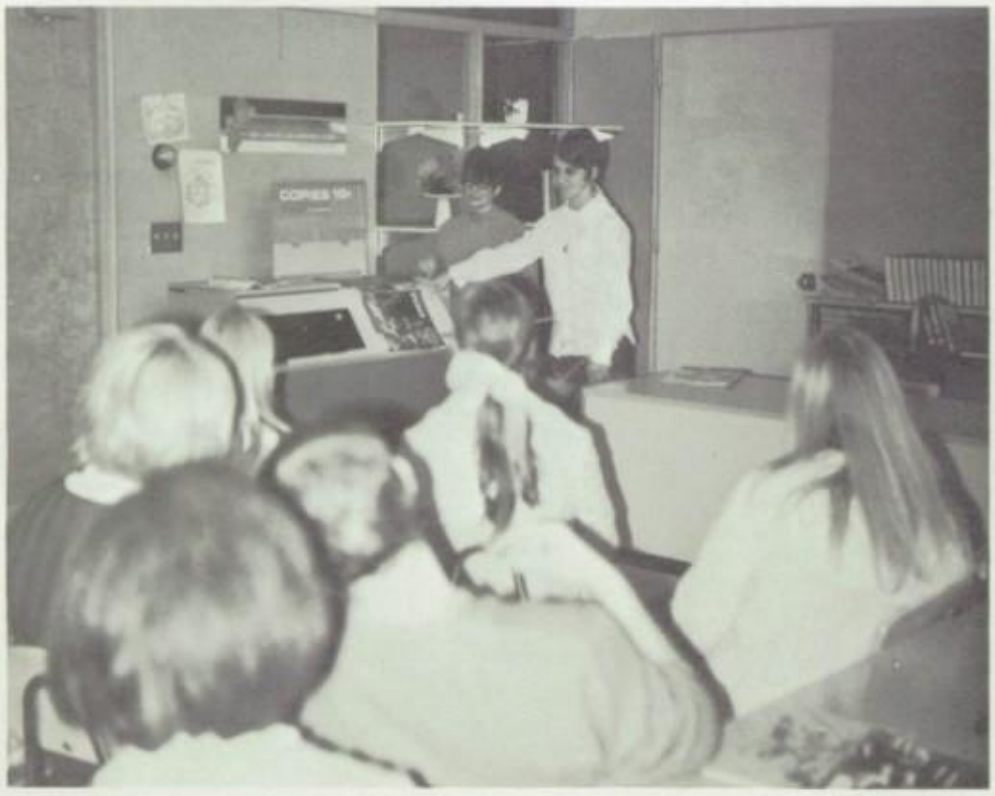
English Department Revises

Teachers in the English department decided to try something new this year. They felt that the old system of one semester of grammar and one of literature created a false division in the language arts, with reading and writing being too closely related to be divided into separate parts.

Under the new system students took four quarter courses, selecting course offerings that interested them most. Among the most popular classes were speech, drama, the novel, logic, and creative writing. Students changed classes each quarter.

Students do research for speeches under the supervision of Mr. Burton.

Dwain McKenzie gives a speech on Puritan punishment, with Trudy Ireland as his (un) willing assistant.



In a demonstration speech C. Nearhood and R. Peterson explain the operation of the copy machine.

Rehearsals were fun, but not to D. Morgan, slapped by A. DeMaris.

Old System

The new system was not without drawbacks, with scheduling becoming a problem. The benefits outweighed the disadvantages, however. Students took subjects in which they had the most interest, and the shift in classes every quarter provided a refreshing change for students and teachers.

A research class collects information in the library.

Administration

Principal R. Wiley Mellish

Superintendent John O. Ireland

A dedicated group of School Board members, along with the superintendent and school principals, had an exceptionally busy year. In addition to the usual routine, the administration had a middle school under construction, to be ready in the fall of 1970. An elementary school was started northeast of the high school grounds, and preliminary work was done on remodeling and enlarging the high school complex to accommodate a rapid rise in enrollment.

Additions were made to the high school staff. Mr. Jack Ross became vice-principal for half a day. District School Nurse Judy Pinson spent two days a week at the high school, and a half-day teacher, Mr. Walker, was added to the staff when math classes got too big.

Moments to Remember

Barb Nash asks "My turn, Coach?"

K. Ross and D. McKenzie clean up for track season.

Several junior boys bask in the sunshine at noon.

Mr. Mellish goes mod.

Band members add cheer during Christmas season.

Mr. Callander and Mr. Hipp sport new togs.

The 1969-70 school year brought many changes. Liberalization of the dress code became a reality. The English program was revised to promote more interest in the language arts. Because of the crowded study hall conditions, it was necessary to provide for late arrival and early dismissal of students.

During February, White River hosted the Seamount League Chorus Festival, and saw a film about the famous Mt. Everest climb with guest speaker Dr. Luther Jersted. Topping off the year in the sports world, White River was victorious over traditional rivals, Enumclaw, in both basketball and football.

Around the world ecology became the "big thing." A breakthrough in genetics came with the successful isolation of a specific gene with a known function. Top news headlines for the year read... Ho Chi Minh, famous Indo-China hero, dies... Mets win World Series... Ted Kennedy plunges off Chappaquiddick Island bridge... Civil War in Nigeria ends... Certain viruses cause cancer... Mia Farrow, a free soul, has twins... and the draft lottery ends suspense for some.

I would like to thank staff members for their time and effort spent in capturing these moments. Thanks also to Bert Perler photographers and Ken Werner of American Yearbook for their help. Especially, Mrs. Rich deserves thanks, for without her dedication, perseverance, and cheerfulness in the face of adversity, this annual could never have been.

Another phase within the circle of our lives has been completed and within the pages of this book we have tried to preserve your memories.
